

ADVENTISTS DISCUSS BUSINESS AFFAIRS

Meeting Favors Strictest Regulations for Those Who Would Become Preachers.

The fourth day's session of the bookmen's and home missionary convention of Seventh-day Adventists began this morning in Takoma Park. The business session was opened with a brief devotional service.

That no man should be allowed to enter the colporteur work whose sole motive was to make money was the opinion voiced by speakers during yesterday's session. Men selected for these positions should be of moral character and zealous in their work for the advancement of the cause, it was asserted. No others should be accepted.

Carl C. Weeks, of Perlin Springs, Mich., who has spent several years in India as leader of the publishing work for the Seventh-day Adventists, declared no man should be considered who could not be beyond the money end of such a thing. He said that some of the natives of India were anxious to enter the colporteur work on the basis of having a living assured to them, but they were always refused, and suggested that the same rule be adopted in this country.

I. D. Richardson, leader of the Columbia Union conference colporteurs, made an appeal for more colporteurs to enter the large cities and distribute literature among the intelligent classes. He urged the importance of the subject, letting the spirit of God work in and through their lives, and stated that only in this way could they hope to achieve the greatest success in their work. Others who spoke in favor of elevating the standard of the colporteur were J. B. Blosser, leader of the Lake Union conference; I. A. Ford, of the Review Herald Publishing Association; S. E. Kellman, of Petoskey, Mich.; and M. V. Leach, of Philadelphia.

The question of preparing resolutions and recommendations looking to some definite action on the subject was referred to a committee, of which Carl C. Weeks is chairman.

Three More Plead Guilty In Million-Dollar Fraud

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—Three more defendants in the "$1,000,000 swindle," or Great Western Jostling Company case, pleaded guilty in Federal court today to using the mails in a conspiracy to defraud. They were Samuel Brown, of Philadelphia, and Jacob L. and M. M. Liebovitz, brothers, of East St. Louis, Ill.

Charles L. Greenfield, confessed ring-leader, told how stores were established in six cities and the subjects thrown into profitable bankruptcies.

Educator Advises Early Marriages

CINCINNATI, Feb. 4.—That the average age of marriage of college women is twenty-eight to thirty-five and that the rate would be improved if the average were twenty-five, was the declaration of Miss Emily McVey, dean of women at the University of Cincinnati, in an address before the second annual meeting of the Ohio Federation of College Women.

Miss McVey further said that trained professional women should remain at their vocations after marriage. Wrong conventions and a wrong public opinion prevent them from remaining at their work, she explained.

Moseby, Heartbroken Setter, Ends His Life

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Moseby, a Gordon setter, owned by Wade Hampton, Jr., committed suicide in the North river because he thought his friends had deserted him. Moseby was a favorite with the tug captains. He spied a familiar tug and waded out, barking his desire to be taken aboard. But the captain, a stranger, ignored the call and Moseby's dog heart broke. He continued out until the waters covered him.

Fresh Attacks Hurlled On Russians in Poland

Foes Considerably Re-enforced and Stubborn Fighting Continues Day and Night, Petrograd Admits—Losses Heavy for Both.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 4.—All Poland, from Warsaw west to the Prussian frontier, is now a bloody battleground. Official dispatches today reported furious German attacks along the Bzura.

Sanguinary fighting preceded the capture by the Russians of Skempe, north of the Vistula.

Southwest of Warsaw the Czar's aviators rained bombs with deadly effect upon German concentration camps.

GERMANS CONSIDERABLY RE-ENFORCED.

"The Germans have been considerably re-enforced," was the official admission from the general staff today. "West of Warsaw, in the region of Goumin and Borzhynow, south of the Bzura, heavy artillery fire continues day and night."

"Stubborn hand-to-hand fighting continues at all hours, with both sides suffering severe losses. Goumin is still held by our forces, though the enemy is making desperate attacks in that region."

Victory for the Russians north of the Vistula aroused enthusiasm here today. It was taken to indicate the resumption of the Russian drive on the Prussian fortress of Thorn.

The Russian army captured Skempe, half way between Lipno and Sierpc, by an infantry onslaught. The Germans retired in the direction of Lipno, which they still hold. A German attack south of Lipno along the Vistula was repelled.

The Russian force operating south-east of Instanburg forced a crossing abandoned their march upon Koenigsberg. For the last three days no movement of the campaign has been reported in official dispatches from Petrograd. Advice received here today said that the Czar's armies have encountered superior forces west of Pilsken and have been forced to halt their advance.

Southeast of Instanburg, a Russian force, assigned to push in a northwesterly direction along the railroad leading through Instanburg to Koenigsberg, made desperate efforts to cross the German line of village on the west bank of the Angerap, south of Darkhmen. The Germans suffered heavy losses from Russian shells, but occupied such strong positions on the west bank that the attacks were unsuccessful.

Russian cavalry, however, drove the Germans from Darkhmen, on the railroad. The German prisoners taken in that vicinity reported that some re-enforcements had been brought into East Prussia from Poland.

Along the western battle line today military experts were chiefly concerned over new German attacks near Verdun. The army of the German crown prince has resumed its efforts to drive in the French infantrymen entrenched outside the beleaguered city.

VIENNA (Via Berlin and London). Feb. 4.—Austro-German forces operating in the Carpathians captured 1,000 Russian prisoners and several machine guns in a successful assault upon a strong position held by the enemy on a mountain range. It was stated officially today.

The Russians are on the offensive at several points along the mountain. Their attacks were described as "very stubborn," but the war office declared they were being repulsed.

The situation in southern Poland and western Galicia is unchanged.

Bulgaria and Greece Near Diplomatic Crisis

SOFIA, Bulgaria (via London), Feb. 4.—The attitude here with reference to the war is one of the strictest neutrality, and the Macedonian question is the only factor giving apprehension," said the Bulgarian premier, Vassil Radoslawoff.

"Our relations with Roumania are improving constantly; trouble from that quarter is not expected. But the Macedonian question is assuming greater proportions each day with the arrival in Bulgaria of hundreds of fugitives from those parts of Macedonia ruled by Serbia and Greece."

"It is impossible to say what Bulgaria's action will be. We are waiting, and must wait."

The premier spoke with strong emphasis. He said that the Macedonian Turks were adding to the problem by looking to Bulgaria for deliverance from Serbian and Greek "misrule."

All French Troops to Take Tetanus Serum

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The death figures among the wounded, which up to the present have been the miraculously small one of 246 per cent. of all those cared for in the hospitals, would, it is thought, be appreciably lessened by the compulsory inoculation of the entire army against tetanus.

The doctor here in Paris gives the two diseases most feared, tetanus and gangrene.

Up to this time, in spite of the many cures tried, it has been difficult to save any of the patients who have contracted tetanus. A general inoculation calls for an enormous amount of serum, which requires months to prepare.

LEAVES SICK BED TO AID SHIP BILL

Senator Lewis of Illinois Comes Here From Asheville, N. C., Today to Cast His Vote.

The bitter tirade of Senator Stone Wednesday against the recalcitrant Democrats angered them, and they are not disposed to listen to terms.

Senator Lewis approached Senator Hitchcock, one of the insurgents, today. Senator Hitchcock indicated that he did not care to discuss the ship purchase bill, and that he would not overlook the attack of Senator Stone. Senator Hitchcock is the ablest and most independent Democrat in the Senate, and will not be bludgeoned away from his position.

The Democratic leaders held a long conference this morning, and at the close of it gave it out there would be no vote today.

The apparent plan of the Democratic leaders, though they would not outline it this afternoon, is to play for time until Senators Newlands and Smith of South Carolina and Senator Smith of North Carolina can be brought to the Senate. They are expected to arrive here by Monday so far as time of travel from their State is concerned.

Practically all of the Russian wounded are victims of German rifle bullets. The trenches near Borzhynow are so close together, they reported, that rifle fire scarcely ever ceases. All night German artillery plays upon the Russian trenches. Daybreak is the signal for a new German infantry attack.

The Austro-German forces in the Carpathians are now stubbornly resisting the Russian forward movement into Hungary. It was officially admitted today that the Germans are bringing up fresh troops in this region.

Should Senator Penrose come here, Democrats threaten to have the Privileges and Elections Committee grill him on campaign expenditures in Pennsylvania.

Senator Stone's scathing attack on the seven Democratic insurgents has not mended matters. The Democrats are now threatening to have the Privileges and Elections Committee grill Senator Penrose on campaign expenditures.

Senator Camden said: "The Senator made two accusations against me, one that I am an agent, the other, that I do not bestir myself when the Government is in danger. Touching the first charge, I am glad to be able to say that I am not an agent. Touching the second charge, I am glad to be able to say that I am not an agent."

"I mention compensation at this time along with mention of the vested interests because both terms are well understood by the people. I mention compensation because both terms are well understood by the people. I mention compensation because both terms are well understood by the people."

"The Senator said much about the secrecy of alleged negotiations. He said that the vote was stolen. Surely a denunciation of secrecy comes with peculiar force from him who has known the vote stolen. Surely a denunciation of secrecy comes with peculiar force from him who has known the vote stolen."

Ship Bill Bolt May End All Caucusing

Regardless of what may be the fate of ship purchase legislation, there is no doubt the recent experience of the Senate Democrats have tended to break down the method of legislation by caucus.

The caucus has been used to drive legislation through Congress in the last two years more than for years before.

In the early days of Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, the caucus was often resorted to, but once the insurgent Republicans rebelled, the caucus system was shattered. It has ever since been practically out of use by the Republicans, in both Senate and House, as a means of compelling legislation.

On the other hand, the Democrats, since they have been in power, have made constant use of the caucus to silence the objections to legislation of minorities. But the caucus system, which Wilson has sanctioned the caucus mode, but many Democrats have inwardly rebelled, and occasionally some one has openly rebelled.

Miniature Battleship To Be Shown at Kann's

Sigmund Kann, of S. Kann Sons & Co., has invited a number of friends to attend a private exhibit, in the Kann store at 4 o'clock this afternoon, of the miniature battleship designed by Samuel Orkin, of Boston, for exhibition at the Panama Pacific Exposition. Mr. Orkin, the designer, will point out the various interesting features of the model, which is fully equipped in every respect, like a modern man-of-war.

While the exhibit this afternoon will be strictly private, Mr. Kann has arranged for four exhibits tomorrow to which the general public is invited. The model will be shown on the fourth floor, the first exhibit at 11 a. m., and the others at 1, 3, and 4:45 p. m.

The model was exhibited at the recent banquet of the United States Naval League, in New York city, and won high praise from naval experts.

Architect Charles H. Haga Buried This Afternoon

The funeral of Charles H. Haga, well known architect and expert on concrete construction, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of his brother-in-law, Theodore Bige, 1010 16th street northwest. The body will be placed temporarily in a vault at Glenwood. Mr. Haga drew the plans for the remodeling of the Capitol building at Richmond and designed and built some of the largest buildings in that city and in the State.

Mr. Haga died at St. Mary's Hospital Tuesday, following an operation upon the brain for tumor growth. He was a graduate of the University of Virginia, a former member of the Virginia State board of health, and at the time of his death was superintendent of architecture for the J. B. Thomas estate, of Virginia. He was thirty-five years old, survived by a widow and five small children.

"Snake Oil" Used on Rheumatic Zoo Rhino

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Miss Smiles, the two-horned, forty-year-old rhinoceros of the Central Park zoo, who for the past few years has been bothered with rheumatism, has been "cured."

Heard keeper Smiles employed a pint bottle of rattlesnake oil, sent by a friend in Dutchess county. In the application of the oil, one of the assistants was injured.

CHARTERS OF RICH FUNDS ATTACKED

Methods of Rockefeller, Sage, and Carnegie Foundations Under Investigation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The question whether the Rockefeller Foundation is legally created under its present charter was again under discussion before the Federal commission on Industrial Relations today.

Dean George W. Kirkwood, of Columbia University, has been inquiring into this allegation and he was scheduled to give his views on the subject. At the same time John M. Glenn was to tell about the Sage Foundation, and H. S. Pritchett regarding the methods of the Carnegie Foundation.

Incidentally if the commission could find the time it was the plan to listen to the story of Paul Babik and three other workmen who were shot by deputy sheriffs in the riots at Roosevelt, N. J.

The first witness of the day was John Lawson, of Denver, president of District 15, of the United Mine Workers of America. Incidentally with him he stood the first dissemination among members of the commission was disclosed.

Commissioner Welton, who conducts department stores on the Pacific coast and represents the employers on the commission, has been trying to connect the United Mine Workers with the Industrial Workers of the World. He referred to the mine workers as a "contract breaking organization."

Commissioner O'Connell, who represents organized labor, taken bitter exception to this characterization.

WILSON WILL HEAR SONGS BY GERMANS

Accepts Invitation to Attend Meeting of Saengerbund at Brooklyn in May.

President Wilson today accepted an invitation to attend the twenty-fourth triennial Saengerfest of the Northeastern Saengerbund, an organization of 200 German singing societies, at Brooklyn, May 21. The invitation was extended by a delegation headed by former Congressman Carl J. Lentz of New Jersey, the delegation being introduced to the President by Congressman James H. O'Brien of Brooklyn.

Following his call at the White House the delegation visited the German embassy, where it invited Count von Bernstorff to attend. The ambassador was also presented with two copies of a book, one to be forwarded to the German Emperor, thanking the latter for again offering a prize to be awarded to the singing society winning the highest honors at the Saengerfest. The Austrian ambassador was also invited to attend.

President Wilson was fairly swamped with invitations today. A special train from cities desiring him to visit them on his way to or from the San Francisco Exposition, a special train from the Montana legislature urged him to visit that State.

Praising the Government for its work in aiding the flood sufferers of Ohio in the floods of 1913, a delegation from Dayton, Ohio, a special train urged the President to stop there on his trip, and representatives from the Chamber of Commerce put in a similar bid. An invitation of the same kind from Omaha was presented by representatives of the Commercial and Jacksonian Clubs, of that city.

The President promised Judge C. N. Goodwin, of Chicago, that if possible, he would go to that city on February 21, or at some later date, to address 10,000 foreign born citizens naturalized in that city during the past year.
